

Reuters Open Interest

Data-driven expert commentary on market and economic trends

In a financial world shaped by speed, volatility and complexity, Reuters Open Interest (ROI) provides data-driven, expert commentary on market and economic trends. ROI covers a diverse range of asset classes, markets and geographies, offering keen insights that can help shape the decisions made by financial professionals worldwide.

Commentary that delivers strategic insights

With a team of experienced in-house columnists, plus a selection of high-profile external contributors, Reuters Open Interest delivers the type of thought-provoking, engaging and analytical insights that can enable financial professionals to make more informed decisions. Authoritative, original insights are rooted in data and rigorous analysis, always adhering to the Reuters Trust principles and abiding by the highest standards for independence and accuracy. The combination of Reuters Open Interest, Reuters Breakingviews and FX Buzz Comment provides readers with a comprehensive selection of expert, agenda-setting financial commentary.

Unlock the value

Cross-border perspective

Understand global economic trends to better identify cross-border risks and opportunities

Proactive decision-making

Stay ahead of market movements with timely, relevant commentary covering a wide range of asset classes

Cutting-edge insights

Gain a strategic edge with fresh, accessible analysis of complex topics from leading experts in their fields

Prime coverage areas

Reuters Open Interest covers a breadth of asset classes, in the form of daily market newsletters from ROI columnists, including Morning Bid U.S. by Mike Dolan (released New York morning) and Trading Day (formerly Morning Bid Asia) by Jamie McGeever (released New York late afternoon), available via LSEG Workspace and news feeds.

Macroeconomics

FX markets

Equities

Fixed income

Fiscal & monetary policy

Private assets

Emerging markets

Commodities & Energy

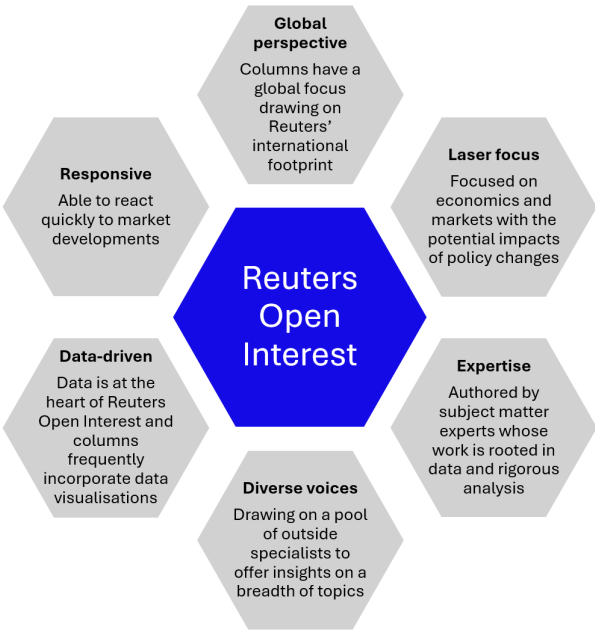

Bonds

Key features

Reuters Open Interest columnists offer unique perspectives. As subject matter experts, columnists always substantiate their views with facts and analysis, often supported with data visualisation.

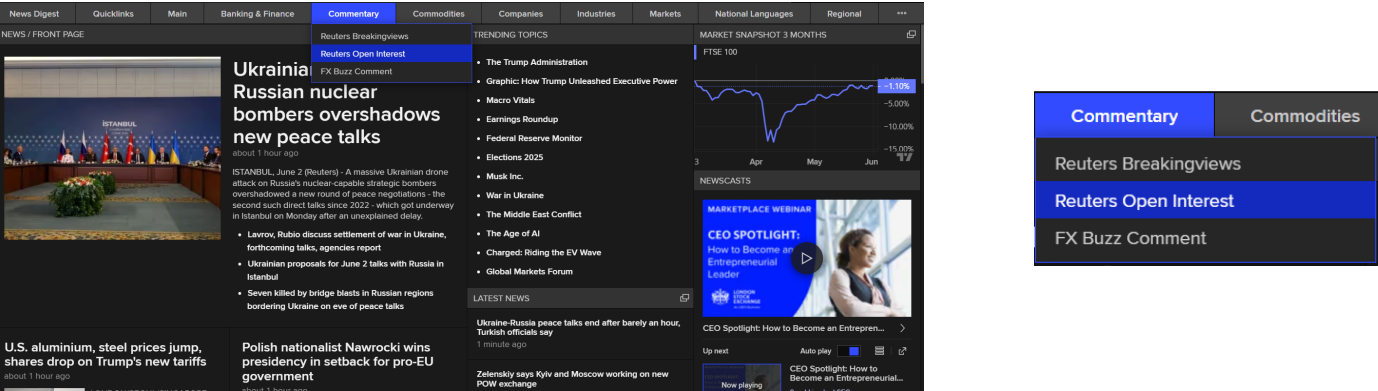

How to access Reuters Open Interest

Reuters Open Interest is searchable via code ROI in News Monitor on LSEG Workspace and available over news feed services.

Instructions to access via Top News app in LSEG Workspace

Select Commentary >> Reuters Open Interest

Reuters' broader commentary service includes:

Reuters Breakingviews

Established in 2000, Reuters Breakingviews has delivered agenda-setting financial insight on global markets, economies and corporate finance. A team of award-winning columnists offers expert analysis, videos, podcasts, graphics, calculators and a newsletter. Access via code BRV on LSEG Workspace, text feeds, and the Top News Breakingviews package.

FX Buzz Comment

Founded in 2012, FX Buzz Comment offers real-time, customisable FX analysis from experts across Europe, Asia, and North America. From executing trades daily to foreign exchange risk, it delivers concise commentary on news headlines and deal flow, as well as deep-dive analysis of medium or long-term trends. Available via code FXBUZ on LSEG Workspace and text feeds.