FTSE Core Infrastructure Indices

Global infrastructure at its core

FTSE Russell defines core infrastructure activities as those involving the development, ownership, operation, management and/or maintenance of structures or networks used for the processing or moving of goods, services, information/data, people, energy or necessities from one location to another.

The FTSE Core Infrastructure Indices include the listed stocks of companies that meet FTSE Russell's definition of core infrastructure. To be included in the index, companies must derive a minimum of 65% of their revenue from FTSE Russell-defined core infrastructure activities.

The FTSE Core Infrastructure 50/50 Indices and the FTSE Core Infrastructure Capped Indices employ capping methodology to the parent FTSE Core Infrastructure Indices to ensure exposure to core infrastructure remains diverse and balanced.

Methodology summary

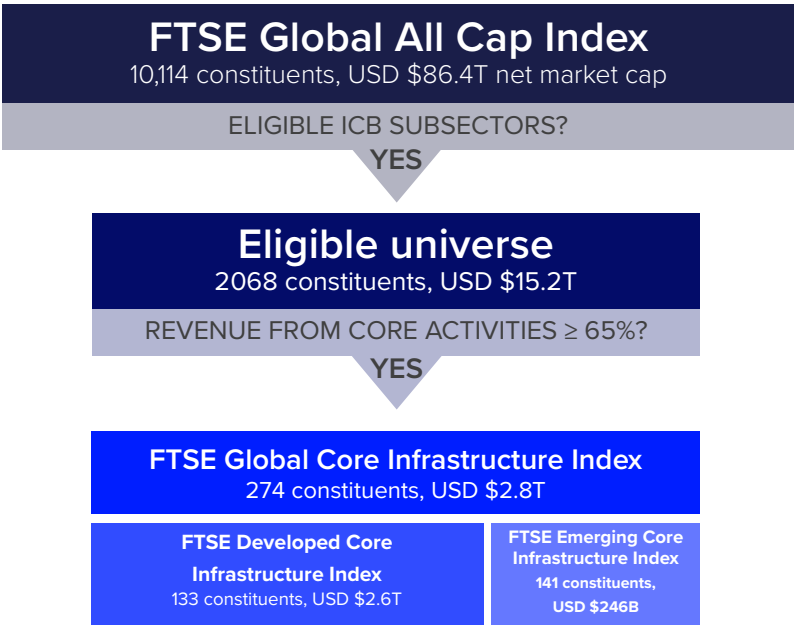

FTSE Core Infrastructure Indices

During each semi-annual index review in March and September, constituents of the FTSE Global All Cap Index that are classified in eligible infrastructure-related ICB subsectors are subject to a revenue screen. Those that derive 65% or more of their revenue from core infrastructure activities become constituents of the FTSE Global Core Infrastructure Index.

FTSE Core Infrastructure 50/50 and Capped Indices

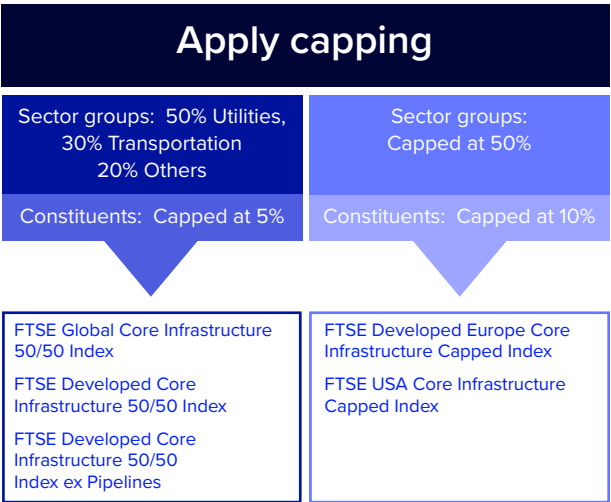

To create the FTSE Core Infrastructure 50/50 and Capped Indices, constituents are grouped by ICB subsector into three core infrastructure sector groups. Weights are capped at both the sector group level and the constituent level as illustrated below.
