

PRODUCT HIGHLIGHTS

Russell Monitor List Suite

RML | RML – Extended | REIR

See the US equity universe through a Russell US lens – with data aligned to each stage of the review cycle.

The Russell Monitor List Suite brings together FTSE Russell-researched data in a single offering designed to support users across the Russell US Index review cycle, including Reconstitution and quarterly reviews.

With access to monthly indicative universe data and confirmed Reconstitution review data, the suite helps users monitor the US equity universe, understand key review inputs and analyze announced Reconstitution changes with greater clarity.

Key benefits

Reduce the data uplift

FTSE Russell-researched data can help reduce reliance on third-party data sets, manual validation, and interpretation of index rules.

Use a centralized data view

Support cross-functional alignment with a consistent FTSE Russell-sourced reference point for Reconstitution workflows.

Understand the “why”

Direct access to underlying Reconstitution data to support investigation, reconciliation and explanations of announced changes.

One suite. Three distinct data files.

How the Russell Monitor List Suite supports the review cycle

The timing, data date and content of each file differ according to its role in the review process. The timeline and table below provide an at-a-glance comparison

To learn more about the Russell Monitor List Suite, please contact your FTSE Russell sales representative or local client experience team for more information.

Please note: RML and RML – Extended are indicative and do not confirm index membership or review data. Russell US Index changes are confirmed through the index review files published on announcement date. REIR contains the confirmed rank date data used in the Russell US Reconstitution and reflects announced index changes. REIR is updated to incorporate changes identified during the query period, as applicable.
