LSEG

The challenges

MiFID II has led to the regulatory and operational fracturing of UK and EU markets, an increase in the number of execution venues, and increased transparency requirements for numerous asset classes.

Compliance with the Market Abuse Regulation (MAR) increasingly requires firms to identify market abuse and financial crime in this dynamic environment, on both a cross-market and cross-product basis.

These higher operational burdens and the market data costs associated with large numbers of execution venues make many in-house surveillance solutions inefficient, costly and unreliable.

Our solution

Trade Surveillance offers a unique solution to these challenges: a multi-market surveillance tool that provides alerts to clients based on data already held by LSEG.

Trade Surveillance for MiFID is a comprehensive solution to these complex and costly challenges, providing a multi-market, multi-asset surveillance tool for UK and EU market participants in scope for MiFID II.

It produces tailored alerts by combining your firm's existing MiFID II transaction reporting data held at LSEG with a consolidated UK and EU order book built from public equity, fixed income and derivative books, embedding aggregated crossproduct exposure.

Key capabilities

Capitalise on your existing transaction reporting data

A value-added service using data you already send to the Regulatory Reporting ARM, combined with public market data feeds to alert you to potentially unusual activity. Our methodology is similar to that used by UK and EU competent authorities to identify potential market abuse.

Behavioural anomaly detection capabilities

Bespoke behavioural anomaly detection capabilities highlight unusual trader behaviour, providing you with better insights into your traders' or clients' activity.

Detailed and unique alerting

We are creating enhanced orderbook snapshots which, alongside your transaction reporting data, key reference data and Data Platform News, will enable you to better understand and analyse complex cross-market, cross-asset manipulation. Specifically tailored outputs will allow you to better focus your team's efforts.

Replay the market

See where your transactions sit on the consolidated order book and analyse trader behaviour. Use our Market Replay tool to get a unique, step by step view of your position against public venues.

Seamless integration

No additional data connections or implementation effort required on your side to access the service. Leverage your existing MiFIR transaction data to gain unique insights into trading behaviour that matters.
