

CURVEGLOBAL

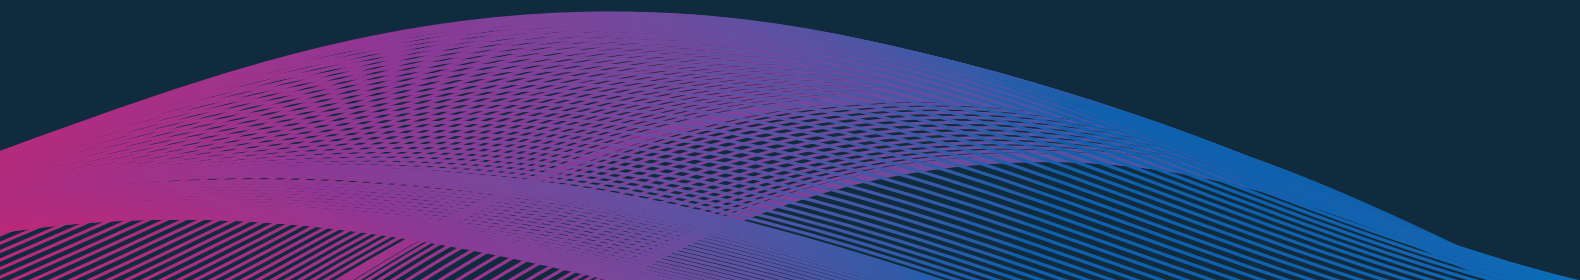

The Future of Derivatives.

Forging the future

We're working with the market to define the future of derivatives. By challenging the status quo and breaking down the silo model, we're creating the opportunity to build products that meet the needs of the users first. Starting with 'look-alike' contracts that replicate the most actively traded futures, we're innovating where it makes a difference – where we can help your trading be more efficient. That's why we've made it easier for you to clear trades by providing seamless connectivity to LCH, the industry's leading interest rate derivatives clearing house. It's just one way we can reduce your trading and clearing costs, free up capital through portfolio margining, and simplify operational workflow. And we are just getting started.

We're partnering with the industry to develop the world's most capital-efficient Rates markets

Backed by major dealers and exchange groups, CurveGlobal addresses the biggest challenge facing interest rate derivatives markets today. Capital. By breaking down the antiquated 'silo' model, we're driving more efficient risk transfer, reducing costs, and increasing product innovation. Together we are shaping the future of derivatives.

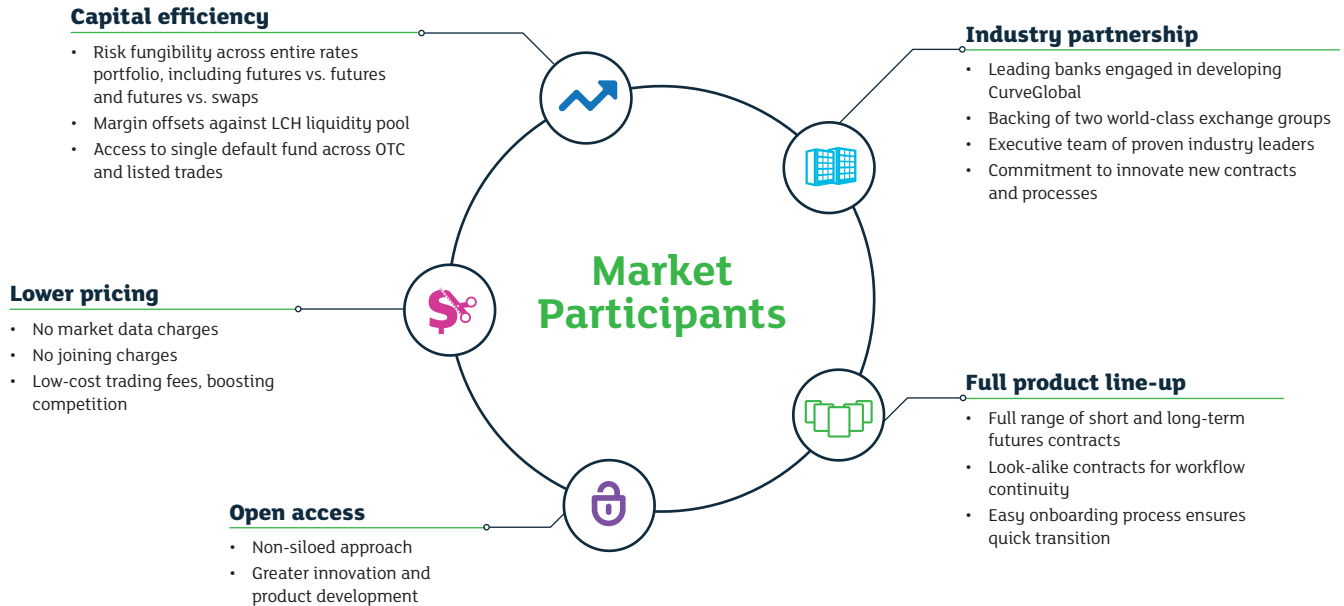

Open access

We're developing a platform that opens up opportunities for participants – one that meets a real need for more efficient and open ways to trade, hedge and transfer risk. A genuine choice. That's why major participants are working together to create this more transparent derivatives marketplace. When combined with the banking, trading and clearing experience of our executive leadership, we're confident that we can deliver a solution that responds to everything you've been looking for.

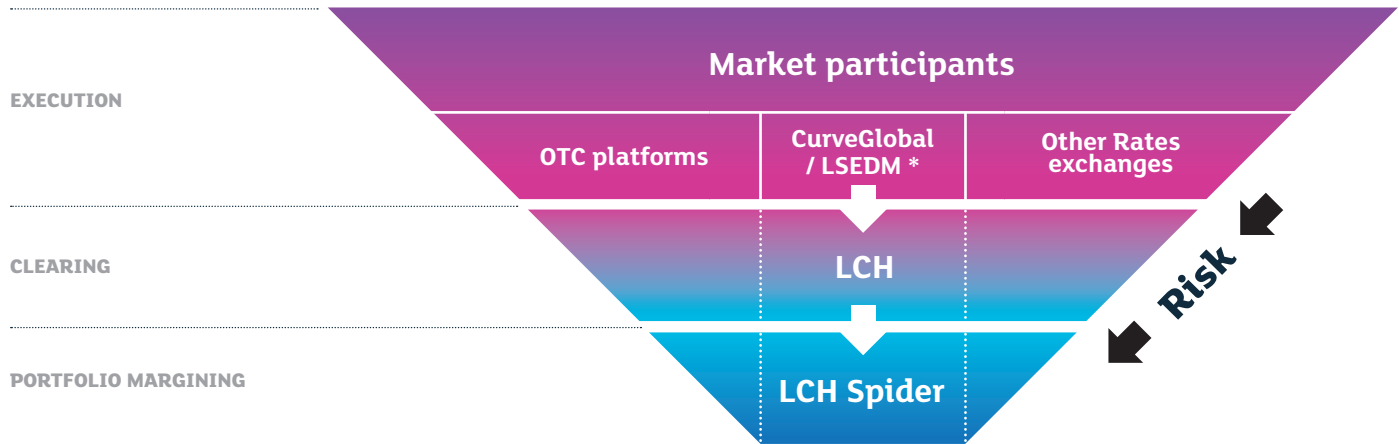

Singular solution

It's simple. London Stock Exchange Derivatives Market provides robust trading infrastructure and connectivity for all CurveGlobal products from day one. Clearing and portfolio margining takes place through LCH. Only one default fund contribution. No market data charges. No onboarding charges. Just an unusually capital-efficient solution for trading Rates derivatives.
